ARRAIGNS CITY'S ELECTIONS.

Bryan, at Philadelphia, Says Roosevelt Has Panic on His Hands.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—William J. Bryan arrived here at 10:20 a. m. from Baltimore. He was taken to Dooner Hotel, the headquarters of the Bryan League of Pennsylvania. Following a reception at Dooner's, Mr. Bryan was escorted to the office of the Philadelphia Record, where he spoke to a large crowd while standing on a small platform in front of a base ball score board. He referred to his invasion of the East.

Referring to "Shall the people rule," he arraigned the election methods of Philadelphia.

Some one shouted "How about Maine?" and Mr. Bryan replied: "Maine has returned the lowest Republican majority in 27 years, and to be conservative I have conceded only [illegible] showing a few states to the Republicans."

He said that Mr. Taft promised prosperity and President Roosevelt [illegible] the promise, but he asked how is Mr. Taft going to give prosperity when his godfather, Mr. Roosevelt, already has a panic on his hands.

Mr. Bryan was then driven to the Bellevue Stratford hotel, where he was guest at a luncheon given by a committee of New Jersey men who have charge of Mr. Bryan's engagements in New Jersey this afternoon and evening.

Mr. Bryan spoke this afternoon at Washington Park, a pleasure resort on the New Jersey side of the Delaware river, below Philadelphia. He will then go to Trenton where he speaks this evening, and later in the night will go to New York.

ANTI-HUGHES MEN MAKE LAST STAND

Name of Hill for Candidate Eliminated.

Governor's Nomination on First Ballot Certain.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—All opposition to the re-nomination of Governor Charles E. Hughes for the governorship of New York reached its last ditch apparently in the small hours of the morning, and by noon today it was the all but unanimous belief that the Republican state convention will nominate him this afternoon on the first ballot.

The name of Dr. David Jayne Hill, ambassador of the United States to Germany, was that about which the anti-Hughes "allies" made their last attempt at a stand. It stood the subject of gossip until about 9 a. m., and then vanished from serious discussion. The story of his involuntary candidacy had hardly become generally known before the anti-Hughes leaders themselves were disclaiming that there had ever been any agreement upon his name, or any request sent to Dr. Hill asking him to be a candidate. Despatches were received from Oyster Bay to the effect that the Hill proposition was not regarded seriously there.

Early today Congressman Cocks, who represents President Roosevelt's home district, telephoned to Secretary Loeb at Oyster Bay that in his judgment the nomination of Governor Hughes on the first ballot was assured.

The New York county delegation held a caucus this morning. A vote was taken on the question of supporting Hughes, with the result that 153 voted for the governor and 34 against him. Herbert Parsons, president of the New York county committee, informed the delegates that he was convinced that Governor Hughes would be nominated on the first ballot, and he added that in the event of failure to make a nomination on the first ballot, there would be a call of the roll and every delegate would be required to declare for or against the re-nomination of the governor.

Meanwhile something of a struggle had been going on over the platform which the committee on resolutions was preparing to present to the convention this afternoon. It was learned that the opponents of Governor Hughes, who were in the majority on the committee, were fighting to prevent more endorsement of the governor's legislative program than was absolutely unavoidable. The convention is expected to finish its work this afternoon.

By 11 o'clock the conviction was widespread that the opposition had "gone to pieces," and that, while there might, and probably would, be continued efforts up to the last minute to find some one upon whom to unite, the battle was really over. The anti-Hughes "allies" wore the air of beaten men. It was stated upon authority that no cablegram had been sent to Dr. Hill, and that therefore "no answer" was expected. It was further said that at last night's conference Mr. Root made it plain to the conferees that the national leaders were most desirous of the nomination of Governor Hughes.

The anti-Hughes leaders were slow in getting about, having been in conference until 3 a. m., and developments were tardy. The story the anti-Hughes tardy. The story the anti-Hughes men were telling as they began to get about was that Hill would certainly be nominated "unless——."

By "unless" they admitted that they meant "unless there is irresistible interference from national quarters, President Roosevelt, the Republican national committee and Mr. Taft."

Dr. Hill's name was surrounded, it is said, by State Committeeman Aldridge of Monroe. Very few people could be found this morning who really believed that Dr. Hill could or would actually be nominated. There were many signs that the latest plan of the leaders, constructed with Dr. Hill as the corner stone, represented probably their last stand, and that if defeated there they would accept their defeat as gracefully as they could.

A long night conference of state leaders, representing both the Hughes and anti-Hughes wing of the convention, adjourned in the early hours of the morning, after a protracted discussion of the candidates. Practically all of the more influential leaders of the Republican organization were present at the gathering, the net result of which was an adjournment to meet again this forenoon and a more or less friendly agreement that in the interval the nomination for governor should be offered to a man regarded as filling the needs of the situation, at least by those opposed to the re-nomination of Governor Hughes.

That the leaders in the van of the pro-Hughes movement had but little confidence in the acceptance of the proffer of the nomination, was clear from the fact that Herbert Parsons, leader of the New York county delegation, who is definitely committed to the support of Governor Hughes, said as he left the conference, "I am still of the opinion that Governor Hughes will be re-nominated, and I think it will be on the first ballot."

Those present in the meeting over which Timothy L. Woodruff, as chairman of the state committee, presided, included Secretary of State Root, who [illegible] as chairman of the state convention; ex-Governor Odell, Jr.; national committeeman William L. Ward, Speaker James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and Senator Horace White of Syracuse, both of these last being leading candidates as opposed to Governor Hughes; [illegible] the leader John Raine, Former State Superintendent of Insurance [illegible]; Former Railroad Commissioner G. W. Aldridge, Representatives [illegible], Parsons and Malby, William Barnes, Jr., of Albany; Postmaster Greiner of Buffalo and William Berry of Brooklyn.

In this conference there came to a head the most urgent effort of the opposition to prevent the nomination of Governor Hughes. At no time has there been any question of the ability of the opposition to prevent the nomination of the governor, if it could be united upon any single candidate who could be induced to accept the nomination.

The efforts made yesterday to induce Secretary Root to accept such a nomination may be described as tre-

GERMANY HAS FRIENDY SPIRIT.

Will Act with Deliberation on Franco-Spanish Note.

Resolute Against Large Bills for Cost of Troops.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Jules Cambon, French ambassador to Germany, has received assurances from Herr Stemrich, acting secretary of the foreign office, that Germany will consider the Franco-Spanish note regarding Morocco in the most friendly spirit, and the ambassador has transmitted these cordial expressions to his government. Herr Stemrich repeated similar expressions of good will to the Spanish charge d'affaires.

A provisional examination of the joint Franco-Spanish note on the subject of the recognition of Mulai Hafid as sultan of Morocco, which was transmitted to the powers signatory to the Algeciras conference yesterday, causes the impression at the German foreign office that the note is only the first document in what is likely to be an extended correspondence between the powers. The separation of the question concerning the cost of the occupation by French troops from the conditions by which Mulai Hafid is to be recognized is considered here as somewhat simplifying the controversy, but Germany is resolute against enormous bills being presented for what is regarded as an unnecessary display of force.

The German reply will be prepared only after deliberate consideration.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S POWER.

German Ruler Can Abolish War Among Nations, Says Carnegie.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—Andrew Carnegie has written a letter from Skibo Castle, Scotland, to Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, president of the American group of the Inter-parliamentary union which is to convene in this city September 17, in which he says:

"I cannot escape the conclusion that the abolition of war among civilized nations as a mode of settling international disputes is very easily accomplished. There will be one man in Berlin while your congress is in session who has only to speak the word. The Emperor of Germany has it in his power to abolish war among civilized nations. All he has to do is to ask Great Britain, France and the United States to unite with him in declaring that since the world has contracted to a 'neighborhood,' and is in constant and instantaneous communication one part with another, the interchange of products between them amounting to thousands of millions a year, the time has passed when any one civilized nation can be permitted to break that peace in which all are so deeply interested. International disputes must be settled by arbitration. Neither of the three countries named could afford to reject this invitation, and the emperor would have performed a service to the world unequalled by any human being that ever lived. "Whether His Majesty is to fail in this great mission, and pass into history as one of a long line of rulers, not men of achievements, but only of title, or to awake some morning to his duty and perform his mission, we cannot tell, but I shall hope that the angel of the Lord will appear unto him."

HOLD MONSTER BARBECUE.

New England Republicans Ratify Selection of Taft and Sherman.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—The formal ratification by the Republicans of New England of the selection by the Republican national convention of William H. Taft and James S. Sherman to head the ticket of the party in the forthcoming national election was made today at a monster barbecue at the Point of Pines, at which more than 25,000 persons were present. That the meeting was representative of the Republican party of all New England was evidenced by the attendance of the Republican governors of four New England states. A distinguished list of speakers had been arranged to address the great gathering, including Secretary James Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, United States Senators William E. Borah of Idaho and Alden Smith of Michigan, several governors and a number of prominent members of the party in New England.

The governors, United States Senators and other guests of the day were entertained at breakfast by the committee in the morning, and were taken to the barbecue in automobiles. The speaking exercises took place in the early afternoon.

Shortly after noon Governor Proctor of Vermont, Governor Floyd of New Hampshire, Governor Woodruff of Connecticut, Lieutenant Governor Watrous of Rhode Island, Postmaster General Meyer and Lieutenant Governor Draper of Massachusetts, reached the Pines by automobiles. With them were the speakers of the day, James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan reached the scene later.

There were many prominent guests present from all over New England. Two special guests were Lieutenant U. S. Grant, 3d, grandson of the famous general, and Irving Mac Dowell Garfield, son of President Garfield. Fifteen of the strongest Republican clubs in Massachusetts had quarters for the entertainment of their friends.

The great feature of the day, outside of the speechmaking which followed, was the roasting of the ox. The beef was placed over the fires, which had been burning since Monday morning, and at the noon hour the serving of the roasted beeves, lambs and pigs began. It was estimated that 25,000 people partook of the repast.

McCARREN TO PUSH THE FIGHT.

Makes Official His Threat to Bolt the Convention.

Will Call for Re-Organization of State Committee.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The first session of the Democratic state convention held here today lasted less than an hour, and was devoted exclusively to the opening address of former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and to routine business. Adjournment was taken until 10 a. m. tomorrow, when the reports of the committee on resolutions contested seats will be received. Upon adjournment the leaders returned to their tasks of selecting a candidate for governor and settling the perplexing and threatening McCarren-Murphy fight. It was predicted, however, that a satisfactory agreement would be reached.

Senator McCarren last night made official his previously uttered threat to bolt the convention if any one of his delegates should be unseated. It was with this understanding that the large Brooklyn delegation under McCarren made their way to the convention hall today. The McCarren delegates against whom contests had been entered before the state committee, were unseated by that body last night. This was not unexpected, as the committee as at present constituted was known to be antagonistic to the Brooklyn leader. Senator McCarren took with him to the convention hall today a resolution which he declared he would present at the earliest opportunity, calling for a complete reorganization of the state committee and the election of a new membership. State Chairman Conners stated, however, that he did not believe the resolution would have a chance.

The prospects of the McCarren-Murphy fight gave unusual interest to the opening session of the convention, which consisted of the address of Former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, and the appointment of committees. Senator McCarren says he will first make his fight before the credentials committee, and if unsuccessful there will carry the matter to the floor of the convention.

The nominating session will not be held until late tomorrow afternoon, and may, as a matter of fact, have to be postponed until Thursday, on account of the visit of W. J. Bryan, who will address the convention Wednesday evening. Every effort will be made, however, to have the gubernatorial nomination at least out of the way before Mr. Bryan arrives. This is the wish of the Presidential candidate, who does not desire to be put in the position of having influenced the selection of a candidate in the state convention.

Lieutenant Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler remained this morning to all outward appearances the leading candidate for nomination as head of the state ticket. Leader Murphy's expression of opinion in favor of Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard of New York city became public property this morning for the first time, and was widely commented upon. The friends of Mr. Chanler, however, continued their efforts to convince Mr. Murphy that the lieutenant governor's strength up the state entitled him to first consideration. The race for subordinate places on the ticket continues an open. The Tammany delegation enlivened the morning with their usual convention parades.

The candidacy of Lieutenant Governor Chanler was given further strength today, when up-state delegates arrived. Charles F. Murphy and his advisers maintained a receptive attitude.

Senator McCarren said today that all the delegates from Kings would be seated, or the delegation would leave the convention. Chairman Conners, at 11 o'clock announced in his opinion that Chanler would be nominated on the first ballot.

It was well past the hour of noon before the delegates to the Democratic convention began to assemble. An important conference in the rooms of Leader Murphy was one of the principal reasons for the delay in opening the convention. National Chairman Mack and Mr. Murphy were in consultation for some time before a messenger was sent for State Chairman Conners. The latter arrived in a rush and was soon closeted with the other leaders. It was said that as the outcome of the conference there would be a decision as to whether there shall be peace at any price with McCarren, or the threat of the leader of Kings county to bolt be ignored.

The prospect of a fight in the convention between Murphy and McCarren was uppermost in the minds of the delegates as they reached the hall. National Chairman Mack will have to use his best endeavors to straighten out what appears to be a hopeless breach in the Empire state Democracy.

Lieutenant Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler continues to hold first place in the gubernatorial race. Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard, who was mentioned by Leader Murphy yesterday when the up-state leaders demanded that the New York leader name some one to challenge the right of the lieutenant governor to the nomination, was widely discussed today.

The convention was called to order at 12:52 p. m. by State Chairman Conners. The arriving delegates and spectators found the convention hall gay with decorations. At 12:45 Leader Murphy and Chairman Mack came in together. They were followed by Senator McCarren of Brooklyn.

State Chairman Conners called the convention to order at 12:52 p. m. The temporary organization was effected by the selection of Former Supreme Court Justice J. O'Brien of New York as temporary chairman.

Judge O'Brien was cheered at the very outset when he prefaced his speech by the announcement that with the cooperation of the delegates he would do his utmost to promote harmony, harmony and success of this convention."

Judge O'Brien's reference to Mr. Bryan as "the great commoner" called out a demonstration, as did a tribute to the late Grover Cleveland.

Chairman O'Brien concluded his address at 1:20 p. m., when the call of the roll of delegates was ordered. When the two contested Brooklyn districts acted on by the state committee last

ACCUSES TAFT OF DODGING.

Bryan Says He Fails to Define His Position.

Ignorant of Public Questions He Tries to Discuss.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—In a long interview given out on the train between Baltimore and Philadelphia today William J. Bryan made a hot retort to Mr. Taft's statement of yesterday. He accuses Mr. Taft of dodging, and says that Mr. Taft "knows as little about my record as he does about the public questions which he is attempting to discuss." He denied that he wants government ownership of railroads, but says he does want regulation. He charges that Mr. Taft made a mistake of $114,000,000 in his estimate of the cost of imperialism. Mr. Bryan said:

"Mr. Taft is dodging. Instead of defining his position on public questions he is inquiring about my record, and in his inquiry he shows that he knows as little about my record as he does about the public questions which he has attempted to discuss. He accuses me of being changeable and abandoning issues."

Mr. Bryan said that he had been a tariff reformer for 28 years, had advocated the election of Senators by the people for 12 years, and has been favoring an income tax for 14 years, and Mr. Taft is only now coming around to his position on these questions. Continuing he said:

"I said in 1898 that the Filipinos ought to have independence. Mr. Taft has this year admitted that the people must ultimately have independence.

"On the railroad question he has expressed himself as strongly as I have. He has said, and the President

REPUBLICANS CARRY MAINE.

Democrats Make Strenuous Fight, But Lose by 8,000 Votes.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—In the heaviest vote cast in Maine since 1888, nearly 140,000, the Republicans carried the state today by about 8,000, that being the plurality of their candidate for Governor, Bert M. Fernald, over Obadiah Gardner, who headed the Democratic ticket.

As the Republicans, after a particularly strenuous campaign, claimed the state by 15,000, and the average plurality in Presidential years since 1880 has been 23,000, the result of the contest was considered by politicians generally as being a notable Democratic achievement. It was regarded as showing particularly that a large proportion of the people of the state desire to be heard on the question of re-submitting the Prohibitory law to a popular vote.

The Democrats insist that the outcome is significant in the general political battle, from the fact that many imported speakers, including Secretary Garfield, who was regarded as the spokesman of President Roosevelt's administration, discussed national issues and urged the polling of a big Republican plurality for its influence on the country at large.

The gain in votes was made mainly by the Democrats, the party vote increasing more than 12,000 over that of 1904, while the Republican vote fell off about 2,500. Both parties, however, increased their vote over that of 1906.

Mr. Fernald expressed himself tonight as pleased over the result. "Doubtless Mr. Taft's popularity helped us," he said, "to increase the vote over that of two years ago and will help us very much in November."

Mr. Gardner refused to comment on the election until he had received the full returns.

The Republicans carried all four Congressional districts by about the usual pluralities, Amos L. Allen being re-elected in the First and E. C. Burleigh in the Third, while John P. Swasey was chosen to succeed Charles E. Littlefield in the Second and Frank E. Guernsey to succeed the late Llewellyn Powers in the Fourth.

The two parties split even in the 20 cities each capturing 10. The Republicans, however, gained in the counties.

The next legislature will probably be Republican by about the usual proportion.

The result, which was admittedly much closer than any of the Republican leaders had anticipated, showed not only the warmth of the contest, but also the popularity of Mr. Gardner throughout the state, in the cities as well as the little rural districts, where his fame as the head of the State Grange proved a great vote gainer.

The Republicans were on the defensive throughout the campaign, seeking to hold the state at the usual plurality by answering the various Democratic arguments, which were mainly for re-submission of the Prohibitory law, taxation of the wild lands and reform in administrative methods. But little was said of national issues, although the Republicans, through outside speakers, including Governor Higgins of Rhode Island, sought at various points to bring such subjects to the attention of the people.

Local issues, however, proved more popular, and in the last days of the campaign the Republicans joined with their opponents in discussing them, and in doing so strongly defended the so-called Sturgis law and urged the voters to support its stringent methods in the enforcement of the cause of prohibition.

The result of the hard work by party managers and speakers on both sides was a large increase in the vote, which was within a few thousand of the record for the state.

ROOT REFUSES TO STAND.

Would Be Disloyal to the President if He Ran for Governor.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—As matters stand tonight the re-nomination of Governor Hughes tomorrow on the first ballot at the Republican state convention, now in session in this city, appears to be certain. Matters changed face with kaleidoscopic rapidity today and the speech of Secretary of State Elihu Root as temporary chairman of the convention, in which he lauded the state administration and vigorously attacked Mr. Bryan, was an important factor in the turn of sentiment.

It was said tonight that the anti-Hughes leaders had staked their whole hope of victory on their effort to induce Secretary of State Elihu Root to accept the nomination for Governor. Secretary of State Root has been the subject of incessant appeals to assume the onus of the situation. Mr. Root told the leaders tonight, however, that he could not think of such a thing.

"I am the senior member of President Roosevelt's cabinet," he was quoted as saying. "If I should do such a thing, either I would be accused, and rightly, of disloyalty to the president, or he would be accused, with equal reason, of insincerity in his attitude toward the governor's renomination."

Secretary Root was the central figure in the first session of the convention today, and his speech as temporary chairman, which was heard by more than 2,000 persons, was received with evident approval. It dealt almost exclusively with national matters, but began with a tribute to the work of Governor Hughes and the state administration, to which the convention responded with applause and cheers.

The cheering which greeted the name of Governor Hughes, started by the bulk of the New York county delegation, was joined in only by scattered upstate delegations and small groups of individuals here and there, and most of the delegates took no part in the demonstration, which lasted less than a minute.

An amusing episode during the speech occurred when Mr. Root [illegible] to Mr. Bryan, that the [illegible] popular [illegible] Republican national [illegible] obtained by [illegible]. The convention was [illegible] sentiment when the band [illegible] with the familiar strain, "Arrah, Go On, You're Only Fooling," [illegible] caught on almost [illegible] to laugh. It looks now as if it would be impossible to carry out the program in its entirety. [illegible] the people of Japan [illegible] to pay the visitors.

Willing to Build 68-Footer and Race Under Rules of the New York Yacht Club.

Sir Thomas Lipton authorizes the announcement that he is now prepared to challenge again for the America's cup, this time with a 68-footer, and under the New York Yacht Club's own rules. If there is any intimation that his challenge would be accepted by the New York Yacht Club there is a strong probability that Sir Thomas will arrive in New York within a few weeks with the challenge in his pocket.

Sir Thomas is jubilant over the victories of his new yacht, the Shamrock, which this season captured 31 winning flags in 35 races in which she entered. "I am confident," Sir Thomas said, "that I have now the fastest boat in British waters. The New York Yacht Club said that the boat that I proposed to build for my last challenge was not big enough. I am now convinced that I can have a worthy challenger built, that I am willing to race under the New York Yacht Club's own rules and to build a yacht of any size.

"I am as anxious as ever to lift that cup, and if I am told there is a probability of a challenge being accepted I shall issue it immediately. However, the time is short, and unless the challenge is issued within the next five or six weeks there will be no chance for a race next year. I need give no further assurance that I am anxious to try again."

ALERA WINS THE TIE.

Sailed Over Manhasset Yacht Club Course of 19½ Miles in Long Island Sound.

When the New York Yacht Club 30-footers raced here in August a series of contests for prizes offered by the Newport Yacht Racing Association, the Phryne, owned by C. W. Wetmore, and the Alera, owned by the Alker brothers, were tied at 22 points for the championship. It was decided to sail off the tie at a later date, at some place where the two boats would meet by agreement. The tie was sailed off yesterday over the Manhasset Yacht Club course of 19½ miles in Long Island sound, selected for the race. The starting line was off Execution light, thence to the buoy off Parsonage point, thence to the buoy off Matinicock point and back to the starting line. The wind was light from the northeast at the start, but hauled southwest near the finish.

The Alera had the best of the send-off and led the Phryne by 2m. 30s. at the Parsonage Point buoy, and by 7m. 25s. at the Matinicock buoy, but in the run home the Phryne cut down the Alera's lead, yet the latter was never headed. The following is the summary:

	Finish	Elapsed Time
Alera,	5:58:30	3:13:30
Phryne,	6:00:42	3:15:42

The Alera wins by 2m. 12s.

SLOOP AVENGER TO BE LAID UP FOR WINTER.

With a split mainboom, the famous racing sloop Avenger, owned by Robert W. Emmons, arrived in Bristol harbor yesterday afternoon to be laid up in the Herreshoff boat yard for the winter. Her record the past season eclipsed that of last year, as she has 22 firsts to her credit to 17 last season. The Avenger won the Astor gold cup for sloops, and also the race for the King's cup off here last month.

While on a trip from Buzzard's bay, the summer residence of her owner, the main boom of the yacht was split in a hard breeze yesterday off Sakonnet Point, necessitating her coming into Bristol harbor under her staysail. The craft is in charge of the skipper, Captain Thomas Eaton, who has been on the craft two seasons.

The School Committee held its [illegible] monthly meeting of the year [illegible] evening, when a number of [illegible] of importance were disposed of. A check for $1,000 was received [illegible] Professor Agassiz, for the use [illegible] committee in furnishing ap[illegible] apparatus, etc., for the Coles Science [illegible] and the Townsend manual training [illegible]. It looked [illegible] that a special meeting of the [illegible] would need to be called, the last [illegible] week, to take action in regard to [illegible] grades.

The committee on teachers, through Mrs. Marsh, reported that, in accordance with the vote of the board, giving it power to select a teacher to have charge of the athletics at the Rogers High School, and also to do [illegible] teaching, it had selected William [illegible] of Bowdoinham, Mass., who [illegible] three years a teacher of physical training in the Maine Wesleyan Seminary, had studied two years at [illegible] and had been at the Harvard summer school last summer. The report was accepted and approved, which means that Mr. Sparks is [illegible] teacher of physical matters in [illegible] high school.

For the committee on buildings, Mr. Batcheller reported that during vacation several repairs had been made [illegible] buildings and the special [illegible] ordered by the Representative [illegible] had been practically completed.

FIRE LOSS OF $300,000.

Lumber Yards and Buildings Burn in Biddeford and Saco.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Sept. 15.—A spectacular fire which caused a property loss estimated at $300,000, destroyed more than 15 acres of lumber yard, more than a score of tenement buildings, several factories and some railroad property early today, on both sides of the Saco river, in the cities of Saco and Biddeford.

A brush wood caused a small fire in a pile of shavings in the lumber yard of George A. Crossman & Sons on the Saco side, until it reached extensive proportions, destroying 10,000,000 feet of lumber in the Crossman yards and the box factory of the concern, before it communicated to a small tenement district of 18 houses. The tinder-like formation of the roofs of these houses was swept by the wind across the Saco river, alighting upon the extensive lumber yards of the Diamond Match Company, which were eventually destroyed, despite the combined efforts of a bucket brigade and the fire departments of both Biddeford and Saco.

On the Biddeford side of the river, after devastating the Diamond Match Company's lumber yard, a half dozen additional tenement houses fell prey to the flames, but no persons are known to have been injured, either in these or in the almost a score of others which were destroyed on the other side of the stream. More than 40 families were rendered homeless. The fire was regarded as a dangerous one even in its early stages, and help was summoned from surrounding cities and towns and these places generally responded promptly.

The united facilities of Saco and Biddeford, however, sufficed to bring the flames under control, before the outside help arrived. Engines, hose wagons and companies were sent from Portland, Kennebunk, Portsmouth, N. H.; Dover, N. H., Old Orchard and Sanford.

Practically all the property burned consisted of easily inflammable material which had been dried through the long-continued drought, and the efforts of the united fire departments were necessary in finally subduing the flames, which was not consummated until after they had secured a headway of several hours and destroyed all the valuable property within reach. A portion of the Somesville bridge, which spans the Saco river between the cities of Biddeford and Saco, was destroyed and interrupted to a great extent the work of the fire companies in shifting from one scene of danger to another.

The Boston & Maine railroad lost two box cars and its property, which adjoined the fire, suffered considerable damage. The trains were held up for several hours and it was necessary to send those of the eastern division over the tracks of the western division by way of North Berwick to Portland. It is estimated that the loss of George A. Crossman & Sons, of Lynn, Mass., owners of the lumber yard and factory first consumed by the fire, will amount to about $100,000, that of the Diamond Match Company, through the devastation of their great piles of lumber, aggregating more than 1,000,000 feet, will total about $150,000, while the value of the 21 tenements which have burned is believed to be $50,000. Other incidental losses amounted to several thousand dollars additional.

The amount of the match factory lumber burned was estimated at 8,000,000 feet. The Crossman Company lost 1,000,000 feet. The properties were well protected by insurance.

Speech from Throne Touches Briefly on Venezuela Differences.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 15.—The speech from the throne at the opening of the States General today, was read by Premier Heemskerk in the absence of Queen Wilhelmina, who is convalescing from her recent illness.

The speech makes the following brief reference to the differences between the Netherlands and Venezuela: "In our friendly relations with Venezuela, an interruption occurred which our government is endeavoring to overcome peacefully." The only other mention of the subject is under the heading of "The Colonies," where the following appears: "The colony of Curacao is suffering a loss through the interruption of trade with the republic of Venezuela."

The speech announces that a bill will be introduced for a general tax on incomes, with a supplementary tax on capital.

THE TRUTH.

[Theodore Garrison, in Ainslee's Magazine.]

That glorious flame that was my youth
  Is burnt to ashes, flung
And scattered, and I know the truth—
  I, who one day was young.

Wisdom is mine my peers among,
  No stoic but still defies;
I hear beyond the flattering tongue
  And see beyond surmise.

And this my wisdom—I, grown wise,
  Would toss it all [illegible]
For one of Youth's exquisite lies
  That one day cheated me.

For this is wisdom's worth—to see
  That ignorance was fair,
And more than Truth is Comedy
  With rose leaves on her hair.

FANCIES.

Dyer—Well, I see Fallin is on his feet again.

Ryer—Yes; he was obliged to sell his auto.—[Puck.

Heeler—Bill—That plank was put into the platform by our own bunch. We demanded it, see?

Citizen—Yes; I see. Sort of a gang plank.—[Cleveland Leader.

"Is your son derelict in his studies, Mrs. Comeup?"

"Yes, indeed, he is, and it makes us so proud of the dear boy to have all his teachers say so."—[Baltimore American.

Reynor—Ever do anything for your hair?

Shyne (who has a rapidly growing bald spot)—Yes; I mourn for it occasionally, but what good does that do?—[Chicago Tribune.

Wilmot—De Auber is what might be termed a modern artist, isn't he?

Critters—Yes, but he carries modernism to extremes. Why, he recently painted a portrait of Father Time pushing a lawn mower instead of carrying the conventional scythe.—[Chicago Daily News.

That the bill of fare at some of the hotels in the West is not very elaborate was proven by a story recently told by a Philadelphian who was traveling in that part of the country. Going into a small hotel, he entered the dining room, and was given a table by one of the waiters.

"Will you have pork and beans, sir?" asked the waiter, producing the usual glass of water.

"No, thank you," answered the Philadelphian, "I don't care for pork and beans."

"Dinner is over, then," was the startling rejoinder of the waiter as he moved away.—[Philadelphia Telegraph.

"Do you think Mr. Skinner's baby will take after its father?"

"Not at all. The other day they persuaded it to cough up a nickel it had swallowed."—[Washington Star.

Maud—Apples, they say, are splendid for the complexion.

Jack—I'll bet you the gloves that's the very thing Satan said to Eve.—[Boston Transcript.

"Are you 'Boots'?" inquired the big Londoner in the American hotel.

"Nope," replied the bellboy. "They call me 'Scales.'"

The Londoner seemed mystified. "Scales, eh? [illegible] What do they call you 'Scales' for?"

"Because [illegible] That's the reason, [illegible]"—[Chicago Daily News.

ROOSEVELT ON TAFT.

It is explained that the letter from Mr. Kohrs of Montana to the President, the reply to which has just been published, was inspired by Mr. Bryan's statement that he was the President's heir and natural successor. Naturally, the President does not specifically answer this half-serious and half-playful remark; it would hardly be in accordance with the proprieties for the President to plunge into the controversies of the campaign to quite such an extent. But he replies to the opportune letter of Mr. Kohrs, whose inquiry, whether connected with anything said by Mr. Bryan or not, came at a convenient point in the campaign, that Mr. Taft has every qualification for succeeding him and is preeminently the man to carry on the campaign for the reformation of business which Mr. Roosevelt feels that he has pretty well under way.

We do not suppose Mr. Bryan really expected to convince Republicans that they should vote for him because he was the natural heir and successor of the Roosevelt policies. But if his remark be taken in the spirit of half-banter, it wasn't so very far out of the way. Mr. Bryan has been fighting the "money power" and the corporations for years. Mr. Roosevelt hardly began before his message to Congress four years ago calling for additional railroad legislation, and previous Presidents have undertaken no such reformatory campaigns as Mr. Bryan has been carrying on for a dozen years and the President for a third of that period.

But the President's main reason for urging the election of Mr. Taft is the well-founded one that if he were to be succeeded by Mr. Bryan there would be such general and wholesale attacks upon capital that a period of reaction would certainly ensue, while Mr. Taft can continue the firm but gentle pressure upon the "malefactors of great wealth" which has distinguished the President and which will gradually but inevitably drive them into obscurity. Mr. Bryan's friends assure us that he has broadened and deepened much since he was first introduced to the country, but we suspect that if it were so the Denver convention would not have nominated him.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S SUMMER BUSINESS.

Some idea of the large part which the business of catering to summer visitors plays in the state of New Hampshire, and the extent to which the people of that commonwealth are indebted to the natural beauties of the region, may be gained from the statement that it is figured that $10,000,000 is annually left there by summer tourists, and that some towns have doubled in value by reason of improvements made by summer residents and because of the new industries and new lines of business brought about by meeting their needs. A [illegible] reading the [illegible] can be [illegible] the further estimate that [illegible] people are within a [illegible] journey of the most attractive part of the mountain and shore sections [illegible] speaking of [illegible] with [illegible] the summer places are [illegible] by a large number of people and that a considerable proportion of that number avail themselves of the opportunities to enjoy the magnificent scenery.

With such an income from this source it would seem as though those who cater to the wants of the visitors would do everything possible to make the cities, towns and villages more attractive and their charms more [illegible] what the people would think [illegible] increasing [illegible]. Of course this is done to a [illegible] but it is evident to visitors who seek these places for the invigorating air and the beautiful scenery that much is neglected which might be done to improve the appearance of the places and add to the comfort and convenience of those who come for a longer or shorter stay. That these things which are lacking are for the most part little ones, which are not very important in themselves, but still would increase to a considerable degree the appreciation of those whose coming is so profitable, is no sufficient excuse for the omission of attention to them, for it is always the little things which count as well as annoy.

There are of course many other states in the Union in different parts of the country which derive a large revenue from the natural attractions of mountain or seashore, and our own Rhode Island is not among the least of these, but these figures given for New Hampshire impress one as being large for the area of the state and for the permanent population, who of course, for the most part care for those who sojourn there. They serve to show for this particular state as well as for others that there are other profitable lines of industry and employment besides those of manufactures and commerce, and also indicate clearly that it is possible for these latter resources to exist side by side with the less pretentious but equally important business of catering to the wants of those who seek health, recreation and inspiration among the mountains or by the ocean.

The value of natural beauties as an asset in the economic welfare and prosperity of a commonwealth or municipality is also taught by these figures. Time was when this fact was not appreciated very fully, if at all, but it has come to be understood in most places which are within the pale of civilization and development. If those who take advantage of these charms of nature to lure people away from their city homes to the country for a period do not do the most possible to make their stay delightful, they do a great deal, and that they are successful in large measure is shown by the fact that many repeat their visits year after year and never fail to find pleasure and enjoyment every time. New Hampshire on the whole, therefore, is awake to the value of its scenery as a stock in trade, and caters so well to those who journey there to see and enjoy it that the entertainment of summer visitors has become one of the large items in the revenue of the state.

A RESTRAINT UPON CENTRALIZATION.

The influence of the federal judiciary has been pretty generally on the side of the extension of the federal power. There have been a few cases recently, however, which indicate a movement in the opposite direction. One of these was a decision of the Supreme Court a year and a half ago, sustaining a Kentucky law directing a state official to revoke the license of a foreign corporation which should transfer litigation brought against it to the federal courts. In doing this it almost in terms reversed a decision of the same court 20 years before. Another was a recent decision regarding the newly enacted liability law affecting interstate railroads. The court refused to recognize that the power conferred by the constitution upon Congress to regulate interstate commerce gave it power over all the relations of interstate carriers.

A third is the decision—not of the Supreme Court, but of the circuit court of appeals—on the so-called commodity section of the rate regulation law. It is a close, in distinction from a broad, or loose, construction decision. It is rendered by one Democratic and one Republican judge, with one Republican judge dissenting. It denied that the power to regulate interstate commerce involves the power to prohibit any part of the interstate commerce. The transportation of lottery tickets had been prohibited by law, and the law sustained, because lotteries were repugnant to the moral sense of the community, but anthracite fires are not repugnant. Any citizen has a right to carry on the coal trade, and if he has been carrying it on for 50 years Congress cannot destroy his business pursuant to some new policy adopted by it.

The railroads couldn't sell their coal lands except at a great sacrifice, so that to force them to sell would be to deprive them of their property without compensation or due process of law, in violation of the fifth amendment. The main opinion was read by Judge Gray, Democrat, but Judge Dallas, Republican, also read an opinion in which he scored the tendency to increase the federal power as a means of immediately attaining a desired end.

THE FIGHT AGAINST CANNON.

Speaker Cannon has on his hands the fight of his life for re-election. Notwithstanding the fact that two years ago he had a majority of 10,000 in his district, he is now threatened with defeat. The Speaker realizes the situation, and while himself confident of victory is devoting all his time to his campaign. He is held responsible for everything the House did not do at the last session of Congress, and everyone whose favorite bill failed of passage is blaming the Speaker. His determined opposition to labor legislation has set all organized labor against him, while the churches and the temperance element are opposed to him for having blocked the passage of the Littlefield bill, which sought to place liquor shipped into prohibition states under the police jurisdiction of such states. The labor vote is of little consequence in Mr. Cannon's district, which is largely agricultural, but the church and temperance opposition is largely responsible for the defection in the Republican ranks.

Only once during his long public career has Mr. Cannon suffered defeat. This was in 1890, the year of the great Democratic landslide, when many another Republican warhorse went down to defeat. Since his return to the House two years later, he has had smooth sailing in the district. Realizing the gravity of the present situation, the Republican Congressional organization is determined to put forth every possible energy to save the Speaker.

Governor Higgins is not ready yet to make an announcement of his decision regarding a nomination for a third term, and will look over the political situation before he decides. He has repeatedly said he would not be a candidate for re-election, but his party is very anxious to have him again as its candidate, and he may yield to the demand. The Republicans are quite as anxious to learn Governor Higgins's decision as are the Democrats.

Providence has an appropriation bill aggregating $4,949,619.49 for the year, which includes money for running the various departments and the appropriations for the support of the Public Library and hospitals, and for the city's portion of the rate tax.

Maine goes Republican by the smallest plurality in any election in a Presidential year. Yet, in view of the peculiar local conditions, the victory ought to be regarded as an important one, as it shows a strong vote against heavy odds on state issues.

President Roosevelt is credited with a desire to sail in the Wright airship and may make a trip at Fort Myer. There are few things which he does not try.

Everywhere the schools are reporting increased attendance. It is evident that Young America proposes to have an education.

The fire haze from the burning forests of Maine and New Hampshire has reached New York.

GILLETTE'S ADVICE ON EVE OF EXECUTION.

A few hours before Chester Gillette, who was executed in Auburn Prison March 30 last for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Brown, went to the electric chair, he wrote a letter to his younger brother Paul. That letter is now made public. The "Mac" referred to in the letter is the Rev. Henry McIlravy, of Little Falls, Gillette's spiritual adviser. The letter follows in part:

Dear Paul: I enjoyed our talk this morning very much, and wish that we might have a good long one. I am sure that we both should find it very interesting. It has been quite a while since we used to talk together. If I had been home more I think we would have found each other as interesting as somebody else's brother. Too often brothers are not as chummy as they should be, as one can gain so much from the other.

I am very, very sorry that I have added this extra burden upon you, besides the disgrace attached to my position. I know, though, that this will only spur you to do more and prove worthy of the trust. This, of course, means a very hard blow to father, and so you can be such a help to him in many ways. Father never is much of a talker, but he feels very deeply and loves us very much. Do not forget this or do anything that would displease him. Be the son that I should have been, and so partially make him forget my affair.

I have done enough to almost break mother's heart, and want you to avoid my mistakes. We have the best mother in the world, and should be very proud of her and do all we can to help her and make her happy.

I don't want to lecture, but there are some things I hope you may avoid. Girls will always be your failing as they were mine. They will make too much of you and so you will be led to do things you would not otherwise do. Be very careful in this respect. In this matter, as in all others, never be satisfied with any but the best.

Learned this morning, March 26, of the Governor's decision. I am sorry for you, Paul, as this will make things harder for you for a time. Do not let it sour you, and be the man that you should be.

I will give you the girl's picture (meaning Grace Brown). Whenever you are tempted to do wrong look at it and remember your sisters. Be worthy of them!

Remember all that Mac has done for me. I will finish this Monday.

If I don't break down tomorrow don't think I am heartless, because I am not. I expect Monday will be the hardest thing I ever did. I do not fear death, but would like to live. A fine thought is "To live each day as if it were to be our last." I am trying to live right, and am sure I will be ready to die right.

Friday, March 27.

Now, Paul, most of the questions you asked me are considered in that book (Speer's "A Young Man's Questions") I gave you, but if not you will decide them as you should.

Don't cross a bridge until you reach it, but when you do decide honestly and fairly.

A PIANIST AT SIX.

Gertrude Irene Seton is a clever colored child, six years old, whose ability to play the piano is creating quite a sensation in the neighborhood in which she lives. Her instrument is equally remarkable in its way, being of the make of 1822. It probably cannot be duplicated in Washington outside the National Museum. The two together make an interesting combination.

The child takes her precocious gift as a matter of course, and plays nimbly with the antique keys just as she plays with her roller skates and with the wax doll that sits in state on the parlor sofa. Her parents are very proud of their little daughter, but they do not force her talent and they are waiting until the child's hands are large enough to stretch an octave before putting her under a teacher.

She has never had a lesson and her selections are the simple tunes of the day, with a preference for the songs she learned at kindergarten, hymns and patriotic airs. Her tiny fingers fly over the keyboard with a sure touch, large and [illegible] seem to make no trouble, and the small performer plays her little pieces with an excellent idea of time.

Gertrude first gave evidence of her musical gift at four years of age, when her instrument was a toy piano, and there is every reason to suppose that with careful training she will become a remarkable artist, though her present ambition is to become a music teacher.

The piano, which is a treasure from an antiquarian's point of view, is of a long and narrow make, with six slender curved legs and with fretwork and panels of shirred silk [illegible] set in the darker surface of the body of the instrument. Beneath the five octave keyboard are three drawers with knobs of polished wood.

Mrs. Seton says the piano has been in the possession of her family about 75 years, when it was bought from "two old maiden ladies" in Baltimore.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Fatal Results from Automobile Collision Narrowly Avoided.

Record Registration at State Normal School—Woonsocket Endorsement of Pothier.

One woman was thrown from her seat to the ground, sustaining severe bruises, and two others narrowly escaped injury at Main and Bridge streets, Wickford, yesterday afternoon, when an automobile bearing the Rhode Island registry number 536 crashed into another machine registered as No. 2842. The former machine, which, according to the registry book, is owned by Everett J. Boyden of Cranston, is said by witnesses of the accident to have been going at high speed. The other registry number is that of a car owned by Herbert K. Davis of Narragansett Pier. None of those involved in the accident would give their names. The scene of the crash has become known to owners of all sorts of vehicles and pedestrians alike as one of the most dangerous places in the state, a building on the corner cutting off the view so that there have been many narrow escapes from serious accidents there. The machine which is believed to belong to Mr. Boyden contained a man and a woman and came from the direction of Providence along Main street, Wickford. It was going so rapidly, according to observers, that when it came to the sharp corner at Bridge street the driver was unable to make the turn. Instead, the front of the machine crashed into the car supposed to be owned by Mr. Davis, which was going slowly past the corner. There were three women in the second machine. The rapidly driven car was brought to a slow down quickly by use of the emergency brakes and this prevented a fatality in all probability. As it was, the two machines came together with such force that one woman was thrown out and struck on the hard roadbed several feet away from the machine. The other two women in the car, while shaken up considerably, succeeded in keeping their seats, as did the man and woman in the machine responsible for the accident.

When 137 pupils presented themselves for registration at the State Normal School yesterday it was seen that a new record for membership was to be established. Yesterday's numerical strength was 338, which is some 30 in excess of the largest previous membership. John L. Alger, who succeeds Charles S. Chapin as principal, entered upon his new duties yesterday. Two new teachers began their services at this school. They are Lyman R. Allen, who for 10 years past has taught geography in the Normal School at North Adams, Mass., and who will have the same branch here, and Miss Annie Fairchild of Fairhaven, Mass., recently a teacher in the New Bedford Mass. Training School, who will have classes in physics and oral reading. The new members of the faculty fill places vacated by Miss Charlotte E. Deming, who has been retired on a pension, and Miss Valeria S. Goodenow, who resigned to accept a position in Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, N. Y. The Normal School faculty and critic teachers, numbering in all over 40, held a meeting in the school Saturday afternoon and discussed the policy of the school. This year there are four new training schools, located in Pawtucket, making 37 training schools outside of, but affiliated with, the State Normal School.

The First Ward Republican Club of Woonsocket last evening had its first meeting since June. A feature of the meeting was a vote instructing the secretary to forward to the Republican central committee the announcement of the endorsement of the candidacy of Aram J. Pothier of Woonsocket for governor of Rhode Island. The organization passed a vote last June endorsing Mr. Pothier's candidacy. Last night the vote to notify the Republican state central committee of this action was unanimously passed amid much enthusiasm. The motion was made by F. E. Whittaker in a speech in which he spoke of the ability of the man of his popularity throughout the state and of the influence which this vote, taken in the northern city would have throughout Rhode Island. A. F. Bicknell seconded the motion, and remarked that generally speaking the entire northern city was in favor of and would vote for Mr. Pothier if he was nominated.

The quest of Judge Christopher M. Lee's six-cylinder touring car, stolen a month ago, ended in Montreal yesterday, when the car was found and the thief arrested by Pinkerton detectives. Joseph F. Hayes of Providence is under arrest. He is said to have admitted stealing the machine, which was taken from the City Garage in Providence August 12. Hayes sold the car to a Montreal hotel proprietor for $700. It was practically new and was valued at $2,500. The chase was carried on by the company in which the automobile was insured. Hayes, who is 26 years old, was taken into custody at the Russell House in Montreal. Steps will be taken at once by the authorities to procure extradition papers and have Hayes brought to Providence. Two weeks ago a warrant was issued for his arrest. This charges him with breaking and entering in the night time the City Garage and the larceny of the automobile, the property of Judge Lee, valued at $2,500.

In a letter to the South Kingstown town council at yesterday's session Railroad Commissioner Joseph P. Burlingame, in regard to the contemplated substitution of bells for crossing tenders by the New Haven Railroad at stations in the town, says: "I shall not allow the substitution of any devices in the town unless I feel that it will be for the better protection of the people." The communication was in reply to the recent vote of the town council protesting against the removal of the crossing tenders and the substitution of bells at crossings.

Synagogue Machzike Hadas, "The Strength of Judaism," was dedicated by the congregation worshipping at that edifice on Willard avenue Sunday afternoon. There were interesting ceremonies, most of which pertained to the ark, the Torah and the everlasting lamp, the latter being lighted over the ark by Sigmund Rosen. Willard avenue presented a gala appearance, several American flags having been suspended across the highway, and one flag of Zion, the oldest known in the world, and dating back to the period of David, hung directly in front of the synagogue. The decorations were confined to American and Zionistic flags.

Providence reports the lowest August death rate in that city, 14.36, since the department has kept comparative mortality records. The next lowest was in 1885, when the rate was 14.71. The total number of deaths for the month was 259, of which but 40 were from diarrhoeal diseases, the lowest number reported in any August during the last 20 years. There were 16 deaths from consumption and eight from pneumonia. The district nurses have been working assiduously in this city and their services may have been instrumental in saving lives of little ones, thereby reducing the mortality rate.

Captain George H. Pettis, state sealer of weights and measures, who returned from the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Toledo, a few days ago, in poor health, was much better yesterday. He was able to sit up during the forenoon, and his nurse said he will be able to be out in a few days.

THE NEWPORT JOURNAL AND WEEKLY NEWS

BY PROFESSOR HANNAH.

[illegible] Course of University Extension Lectures on European Relations With the Far East."

The University Extension committee [illegible] reservation until September [illegible] Monday evenings from January [illegible] to February 8, for a course of [illegible] illustrated lectures by Professor [illegible] Hannah M. A., Trinity College, Cambridge University, England, on European Relations with the Far East as follows: East and West their different Ideals; China's [illegible] empire; England's Asiatic [illegible]; Russia's march across [illegible]; Japan's transformation; America [illegible] Power." If assured of adequate support from those interested, the committee will be able to engage Professor Hannah, but unless there is [illegible] adequate response Newport will [illegible] educational opportunity.

[illegible] attention was attracted to the [illegible] of Dr. Hannah by his more than [illegible] academic career and his [illegible] varied and interesting [illegible] leaving Cambridge. After [illegible] with honors his studies at [illegible] he traveled in Greece and [illegible] and in 1897 was appointed [illegible] of the English School at Tien [illegible] (the Port of Pekin). During [illegible] vacations, while holding that [illegible] he traveled in the northern [illegible] of China, in Manchuria, [illegible] Japan and a corner of Siberia. [illegible] from China in 1899, he [illegible] a term as one of the teachers [illegible] Michael House, Natal, one of [illegible] South African schools, [illegible] afterwards traveling in Morocco, the [illegible], East Africa, etc. One of [illegible] South African schools, [illegible] "A Brief History of Eastern [illegible]" a work quoted from in Archibald Little's "Far East."

From 1903 to 1906 Dr. Hannah was [illegible] of King's College, Nova [illegible], the oldest of the Canadian universities except French Laval, leaving [illegible] to accept the staff lectureship in history for the Cambridge [illegible] Society.

In appearance Dr. Hannah is a tall, [illegible], enthusiastic Englishman, 31 [illegible] of age, with decidedly interesting personality. He is the son of Rev. [illegible] Hannah, dean of Chichester Cathedral, England, and his early [illegible] were spent at Winchester College [illegible] in the case with Mr. Hudson [illegible] Professor Powys, Dr. Hannah [illegible] intensely in earnest, and no [illegible] what topic he speaks he impresses the hearer with a sense of its [illegible] importance. His voice is [illegible] English and peculiarly at[illegible], the delivery rapid and animated.

[illegible] lecturing. Dr. Hannah's great [illegible] to arouse interest in all [illegible] the audience by drawing attention to leading principles and lasting [illegible], by seeking rather to [illegible] the main contribution to universal civilization which different races [illegible] made rather than to merely [illegible] facts and dates, and to draw [illegible] bearing of the lessons in history [illegible] modern problems, especially in this [illegible]. He feels strongly that all history may be made a living thing, [illegible] floods of light on many problems of the day. In treating his subjects Dr. Hannah assumes little or no [illegible] acquaintance on the part of his audience, making the lectures as [illegible] as possible and always leaving [illegible] is not of general interest to be [illegible] in private.

The course on "European Relations with the Far East" points out the [illegible] different ideals of the two forms [illegible] which divide between them the allegiance of civilized mankind [illegible] seem in a peculiar way to be [illegible] in present-day Japan. Throughout the course the one main [illegible] will be kept in view, to explain the strange connection of events [illegible] have made America" in a gift [illegible] absence of mind" (to borrow a [illegible] from Professor Seeley), one of the greatest of Pacific powers.

FOR ENDURANCE TESTS.

[illegible] Torpedo Boat Flotilla Here — Admiral McLean Hoists His Flag on the Yankee.

The submarine torpedo flotilla is assembled here for endurance tests before the board of inspection and survey of which Rear Admiral T. C. McLean, formerly inspector in charge of the Torpedo Station, is president. Admiral McLean raised his flag on board [illegible] ship Yankee this forenoon and [illegible] boats are being prepared for the [illegible]. The strange craft have been down [illegible] Buzzard's bay, engaged in manoeuvres and after the tests here they will [illegible] Chesapeake bay, to be in attendance at the proper time at Philadelphia's big celebration.

[illegible] arrived here with the Yankee [illegible] Hist yesterday afternoon, the [illegible] vessel anchoring in the outer [illegible] above the breakwater light and [illegible] later tying up at the Torpedo Station. The submarines here comprise the Viper, Cuttlefish, Tarantula [illegible] Octopus. The Hist, which has [illegible] as parent ship, it is understood will remain at the Torpedo Station [illegible] that the Yankee has joined [illegible]. The Yankee is painted the [illegible] color, and many a sailor has [illegible] he sees her that he thinks [illegible] a pretty good one for permanent [illegible]. The Cuttlefish is also drab, [illegible] other boats are bottle green, [illegible] the torpedo boat color.

[illegible] after Admiral McLean arrived [illegible] the Yankee Lieutenant [illegible] and other officers of the flotilla [illegible] on board the parent ship [illegible] with him regarding the conduct [illegible] which it is expected will not be [illegible] decidedly startling nature as [illegible] from New Bedford have [illegible]. The tests may begin tomorrow, [illegible] be later. Today the Viper [illegible] her tanks with gasoline [illegible] Government landing and the [illegible] was being overhauled at her [illegible] the Torpedo Station, while the [illegible] and Tarantula were lying [illegible] the parent ship.

[illegible] torpedo boat flotilla is also [illegible] craft comprising it are the [illegible] at the Torpedo Station [illegible] Admiral McLean's [illegible] the usual gun [illegible] and [illegible] been completed when [illegible] New Hampshire anchored in [illegible] coming into the bay [illegible] Bradford, where she will [illegible]

The east end is now down [illegible] proper depth, but at the [illegible] where the heating [illegible] plunge bath will be [illegible] depth will be 23 [illegible] the top of the wall, [illegible] now marked by the lines [illegible] from the batterboards, [illegible] about 7 feet above [illegible] of the lot, adjacent to the [illegible]. A test shaft has been sunk [illegible] lowest corner, which shows [illegible] feet of digging must be [illegible] side. Thus far the excavation has been quite easy, a plow [illegible] the earth for shoveling [illegible]. There seems to be [illegible] finding new places for [illegible] so much earth, it being [illegible] undesirable to make long eight were reached on the roll-call, Senator McCarren, amid cheering, [illegible] to the clerk's desk.

The [illegible] referred to the committee on credentials without debate.

The calling of Senator McCarren's name was the signal for cheering.

National Chairman Mack and Judge Alton B. Parker sat with the Erie and New York County delegates on the floor.

Following the roll-call, the usual resolution necessary to the appointment of committees were adopted.

The [illegible] then adjourned at 1:45 [illegible] until [illegible] tomorrow. The committees on resolutions and on credentials will meet late in the afternoon.

IN "THE MAN ON THE BOX."

Leigh DeLacy and a Capable Company Seen in Opening Play of the Engagement.

Leigh DeLacy opened her week of repertoire at the Opera House last evening before an audience which overflowed the seating capacity of the house, many remaining standing during the entire performance. The play presented was Grace Livingston Furniss's dramatization of Harold McGrath's novel, "The Man on the Box," in which Henry E. Dixey made one of the most successful engagements of his career. The play is a legitimate comedy, with a novel and interesting plot, and far above the average of repertoire company production.

Miss DeLacy as Betty Annesley was excellent, not only in the comedy scenes but in the part which required more subdued, more restrained, acting. She made a favorable impression and was the recipient of several encores and curtain calls. That she is always a favorite in Newport was shown by the handsome bouquet of flowers presented to her by Newport friends during the first act.

John Meehan as Lieutenant Robert Worburton, "the man on the box," the part originally played by Mr. Dixey, showed himself a finished and clever actor, being especially successful in the comedy parts. Ina May as Mercy Warburton, Walter Woods as Charles Henderson, Leon Osbourne as Colonel Annesley, Arthur Victor as Colonel Raleigh and Annette Marshall as Mrs. Conway were all good, making a capable presentation of the minor characters in a well acted play.

CLOSE OF THE FAIR.

Final Award of Prizes Made, Louise Gray Winning the Trip to Europe.

St. Joseph's parish fair closed last night, after two successful weeks. The final drawings were made and announced, and finally the various voting contests, in which many were interested and for which much work was done, came to an end and one by one the lucky—or rather the successful—ones, the hardest workers, were announced. The results were as follows:

Legion table—Watch, Annie Upton; doll, Gertrude King.

Sunbeams—Doll, Theresa Butler; pearl brooch, Annie Mahoney.

Auxiliary—Watch, Catherine McMahon; ring, Annie Egan.

Sodality—Bicycle, Timothy Sullivan; Knights of Columbus charm, John J. Sullivan; bracelet, Catherine Mahoney.

The fair was a great success financially. Despite the fact that times were not so good as they have been when other fairs were held, no other ever given by the parish was so successful financially. One special feature was that there was no work done on the street, this being confined within limits heretofore unknown in fair work, and with a success which must tend to make this new style popular.

The holder of the ticket winning the prize of a trip to Europe is Louise Gray, a colored woman in the employ of Mrs. F. K. Howland. She is rather crippled to take a trip abroad just at present, but the price of the ticket will probably be as acceptable to her as to any of the many who wished it. This was perhaps the most talked of prize in the fair, for it was unique. It was offered by Mr. F. P. Garrettson.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

"BELVOIR" SOLD.

Former Glover and Addicks Estate Purchased by Arthur Curtiss James.

Dennis & Eldridge have sold for the Savings Bank of Newport the place located on Beacon Hill, [illegible] and Harrison avenue, [illegible] acres, with [illegible] stone dwelling and stable, known as "Belvoir," to Arthur Curtiss James of New York, who was [illegible] the property.

The estate was at one time owned by the late John H. Glover and has [illegible] occupied by many prominent summer residents, among them [illegible] W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Anson Phelps Stokes and the late [illegible] Webb. In [illegible] years it was owned by J. Edward Addicks, who occupied it several summers. A [illegible] years ago it was taken in by the Savings Bank of Newport at mortgagee's sale. It is taxed [illegible].

Mr. James, who has purchased the property, had not been here for many years until this past season, when he occupied one of the [illegible] cottages. He is a [illegible], vice commodore of the New York Yacht Club and owner of [illegible] yacht Aloha, which took part in the race across the Atlantic [illegible] two years ago.

In purchasing "Belvoir" Mr. James has secured a desirable [illegible] property. It is located near [illegible] avenue, on top of Beacon Hill, one of the highest points in Newport, if not the highest point, and has an unobstructed view of the ocean and surrounding country to the east, south, west and north. In the neighborhood, though not very close, are the residences of Mrs. Arnold Hague, Mrs. William Grosvenor, Miss Rose A. Grosvenor, Charles L. Baker, Mrs. Mary Hamilton Bush, Edward Stephens Rawson, Albert H. Olmsted and Hermann B. Duryea.

TORPEDO FACTORY DELAYED.

Not Enough Tools or Castings on Hand—Need of Thorough Overhauling of the Station Plant.

The new torpedo factory at the Torpedo Station has not yet started, as many delays have been experienced since the completion of the building. In the first place only about a third of the desired allotment for tools was granted, and hence but a portion of the intended tools could be purchased. These have not all been delivered. There has been trouble, too, in securing castings such as are needed for the construction work, and this is causing delay. Here and there a machine is doing a little work and a few additional machinists have been put on, yet the factory cannot be said to be open.

The working part of the Station today presents a much crowded condition, because of the large amount of building which has gone on during the past few years, yet it seems rather strange that with the growth of the Station there has not been a corresponding increase in the appropriation for maintenance and repair. Twenty-five years ago $50,000 was appropriated and this year it was $75,000. The Station has managed to get along and seemingly thrive, but it has only been by consuming the plant, as it were, for the various structures from enforced neglect are now in a state of repair where they must undergo extensive overhauling. Commander Bristol will endeavor to convince the Navy Department that in the coming appropriation bill a general allowance should be made for the reclaiming of the various structures, which are beginning to show signs of falling to pieces.

ARRIVAL OF MR. HIGGINS ON THE VARUNA.

Steam yachts Varuna and Rambler arrived last evening. Mr. Eugene Higgins with a party was on board the Varuna, having crossed the Atlantic from Southampton. The yacht was held up by adverse winds and fogs in the English channel and put into Cherbourg for slight repairs. The run from Cherbourg was made without incident. Mr. Higgins is here to make his annual visit to his sister, Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks, and will remain several days, then going to New York for another stay before returning to Europe, where he spends the greater part of his time.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

For several hours, yesterday passengers arriving on the ferries were obliged to walk to their cottages or hotels, as carriages were not to be had for hire. The cause was not on account of their being busy, although the drivers were, their unusual activity being directed in trying to do credit to an excellent clambake at Caswell's grove on Howland avenue. When the dinner was served not a driver was absent, hence the dearth of carriages for hire. After the bake a ball game between the Jamestown ball team and the drivers started, but only ran five innings, which was enough to prove that the drivers had done so well by the clams that base ball required too violent exercise. Not a man of the drivers' team succeeded in crossing the home plate. Altogether the afternoon affair was a success, and its becoming an annual affair is [illegible] assured.

The Bay Side, better known as the Bay View Annex, has closed for the season.

Mr. Shipman's auxiliary yawl is being hauled out for the winter.

The first cut in the ferry service for the fall will go into effect tomorrow when the last two round trips of steamer Conanicut will be discontinued.

Mrs. J. B. Lippincott and family have closed their cottage on Beavertail road and left for their home in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ledley left today for St. Louis. Their yawl, the Palatine, which has made the east harbor its home port during the summer, sailed [illegible] for New York.

[illegible] Mr. Stilson of Washington, who has been a regular summer visitor to Jamestown for a number of years, left today for his home.

CLOSING THE SEASON.

Manager Anthony R[illegible] and the Newport Players Arrange for Extra Games.

It is Manager and Captain Andy Sullivan now, his injured arm incapacitating him from playing. Manager Anthony dropped out of the base ball world, temporarily at least, with yesterday's game. He expected that the players would carry on the team for a while, and this they propose to do, having made arrangements to play the Fall Rivers of the New England League here tomorrow.

The Lowell team of the New England League also wished to come, but it was felt that the Fall River team is better known. Fall River is also a better team, judging by its standing in the league, being next below Brockton, with a percentage of .527. The team played here, minus some of its regular men, last week, and is anxious to show what it can do with the regular team, so that a good game may be looked for. The base ball fans will also have an opportunity to show how they feel toward the players, by turning out for a game in which no one but the players is interested.

Thursday a return game with Central Falls will be played at Pawtucket, and Saturday the team will have a benefit in a game with a local team, picked from the players of the City League, with probably some other attractions. It is late in the season, but these two games will be the last which lovers of the sport will be able to see.

HOGS FROM BLOCK ISLAND.

Steamer New Shoreham is now the only boat running to Block Island from here, and but one other, the New York boat, is running to the island. Today the New Shoreham brought down from Providence a big consignment of freight. There promises to be a "hog" time in the old town this afternoon, when she arrives, for she is to bring a lot of hogs from the island for shipment. Purchasers for the packing houses have been around buying up young hogs and two cars are now here to take them away. A car was recently shipped with young hogs from Sandy Point Farm, where they raise some fine ones; in fact none but good material in the hog line is raised on the island.

MEN SUFFOCATED IN TUNNEL.

Double Fatality in Construction Shaft Under Detroit River.

DETROIT, Sept. 15.—The first double fatality to be charged to the construction of the Michigan Central tunnel under the Detroit river occurred early today in shaft No. 4 of the Canadian Approach to the tunnel, when two men were suffocated by smoke from burning timbers and tar paper in the shaft. The dead are W. R. Kimball, superintendent of shafts 1 and 2; Bert Johnson, a carpenter.

The fire was put out about 3 a. m., after the air pressure maintained constantly for the tunnel work had been sacrificed for the blowing out of the smoke and fumes which hindered the rescue and salvage operations. The loss will probably not exceed $2,600.

About 200 men were working in the tunnel when the fire broke out. It was necessary to pass the men slowly through the air lock, as they had been working under pressure. All were reported checked out of the shaft, however, Kimball and Johnson apparently lost their lives through returning into the burning shaft to look for men who might possibly have been left behind.

JANITORS RE-ELECTED.

pleasure of the exercises to feel that some pupils must have felt that they were not as good as others, because they received no floral pieces.

Dr. [illegible] suggested that this did not bar girls from wearing a bouquet at graduation. Mr. Cozzens said that what is aimed at is the handing up of floral pieces to pupils and the calling out of names for such pieces after the graduation exercises.

This idea seemed to suit and the motion was carried, and hereafter there will be no handing up of floral pieces at the school graduations.

Mr. Bacheller said this was the time for the election of janitors, and the election passed off without trouble. Four additions to salaries were proposed by Mr. Bacheller and there was a general discussion of the right of the board to increase salaries. The School Committee had set aside a certain sum for janitors and Mr. Ball said the practice had been to apportion only enough to cover the pay of the janitors as it then was; if any increase is made, it is taken from the tuition fees. It is different with the teachers; provision is made when the funds are appropriated for certain increases in the pay of teachers.

Mr. Cozzens questioned if the apportionment for janitors could be changed without asking the Representative Council, but he was shown that the council had not apportioned the amount for janitors; it had appropriated a lump sum and the apportionment had been made by the School Committee. This explanation proved satisfactory and the business proceeded. The janitors were re-elected, and the salaries fixed as follows:

Rogers—George H. Young,	$[illegible]
Rogers—Frank W. King,	$[illegible]
Rogers—Engineer—Samuel C. Bailey,	$[illegible]
Townsend and Coles—John H. Bennett,	$1,000
Townsend and Coles—Johanna Tracy,	$450
Potter—Rowland D. Hammond,	$600
Calvert—Henry E. Hunt,	$700
Carey—William Gash,	$700
Clarke—Frank P. Gomes,	$650
Coddington—Arnold B. James,	$600
Coggeshall—Henry M. Young,	$700
Cranston—J. G. Swinburne,	$550
Edward-Farewell—D. J. Ayler,	$550
Lenthal—Francis G. Wilbur,	$700
Parish—Catherine Casey,	$191
Thayer—Joseph B. Pike,	$750
Callender—William H. James,	$600

The old janitors were all re-elected. The following changes in salaries were made: Increases, Calvert, Coddington, Cranston and Thayer, $50 each; Callender, $100. In the latter case the assistant from the high school was transferred to the Callender at the same pay he was then receiving, $500, with the understanding that it would be made the regular amount when salaries were fixed at this meeting. The new assistant at the high school has been on duty since. Mr. James was transferred to the Callender.

Mr. Bacheller said that, in accordance with the recommendation of the chief engineer, special gongs had been placed in the schoolhouses, for fire alarm purposes. One of the gongs had been charged to the special appropriation; the others, costing $650, had been paid for from the regular appropriations. It seemed to him that this expense, being only for fire protection, at the suggestion of the chief engineer, ought to come from the special appropriation, and he moved to ask the Representative Council to make such a change in the allotment.

There was some talk, and it appeared that, while the committee had installed these gongs at the suggestion of the chief engineer, and in accordance with the general plan of protecting the schools from fire, they had not been included in the items specifically named by the Representative Council in making the special appropriation for additional fire protection. It was suggested that the committee wait until all the work ordered had been done, when a statement could be made to the Council and a request made for a transfer from the balance sufficient to pay for the gongs. Mr. Bacheller said the changes had practically all been made. It was suggested that the one gong charged to the special appropriation was in the same category as the others and that all the gongs should be asked for. The board accordingly voted to ask the Representative Council to include the placing of gongs, at a cost of $704, in the special appropriation for the fire protection of the schools. The balance of that account, less bills contracted, is now $2,666.57.

H. R. Anthony of the high school was given leave, when necessary, to serve as [illegible].

Mr. Ball reported that he had received a letter from Mrs. Harold Brown, of the fourth district at Munich, stating that she had [illegible] a number of pictures for the [illegible] which she hoped would be [illegible]. The board voted to accept them and gave Mrs. Brown a vote of thanks.

Mr. Ball stated that Head Master Thompson reported that there were more than $1,000 worth of books in the library of the [illegible] and suggested the advisability of [illegible] Mr. Ball said the [illegible] Mr. Parker [illegible] is an alternative—to have half the time for this and grade I of Edward street, giving one the use of the building in the morning and the other in the afternoon. There is some objection on the part of mothers to allowing the children to cross the tracks. Six weeks, the contractor said, would be required, but Mr. Ball suggested that two months be allowed for.

After a general discussion, it was voted to leave with the superintendent and the committee on buildings the entire arrangement, with power to secure quarters and change the schools for such time as is found to be necessary, and to turn over the building to the contractors.

Mr. Ball again brought up the congestion in grades VIII and IX, and made suggestions as to what might be done. It was suggested that the matter be referred to him with power, but he opposed this, saying the questions to be decided were such as could be decided only by the committee. He suggested that if 24 or 25 pupils in the ninth grade who intend to go to college could be found, a room could be assigned them in the high school and they might save half a year in their college course, giving them so much more time [illegible] or a class of the smartest in the grade might be selected and transferred to the high school building, where there is room and where they could save half a year, being able to graduate in February, instead of in June. There were other plans which suggested themselves.

The suggestion of Mr. Ball that a special meeting of the committee be called for late in the week to consider this matter, was accepted and at 9:32, after a busy session, the board adjourned.

Worst Case of Eczema Doctor Had Seen in 40 Years—For Six Months Father Expected His Baby to Die—Blood Oozed Out All Over Her Body—Had to Be Wrapped in Silk and Carried on a Pillow—Now She Is Perfectly Cured.

DOCTOR RECOMMENDED CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My little girl was born two weeks before her time and my wife died four hours after the birth of our child and I had to raise the baby on artificial foods. Six months after birth she broke out and I had two doctors in attendance. There was not a particle of skin left on her body, the blood oozed out just anywhere, and we had to wrap her in silk and carry her on a pillow for ten weeks. She was the most terrible sight I ever saw, and for six months I looked for her to go to her mama, but thank God and his agents, she is alive and well to-day and she will be three years old the seventh of December and has never had a sign of the dread trouble since.

"I used every known remedy to alleviate her suffering, for it was terrible to witness. Dr. C—— gave her up and then I went to C—— F—— and got Dr. B—— and he and Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment saved her. He recommended the Cuticura Remedies, or said we were right in making use of them. As nearly as I can remember, we used eight cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment; but you must take into consideration that hers was an exceptional case, for an old and good doctor said that it was the worst case that had come to him in forty years. I have always hinged on Cuticura Soap to keep her skin soft and to give her a pure complexion. James J. Smith, Wood and Metal Pattern Maker, Box 234, Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 14 and 22, 1906."

TOTAL VOTE MORE THAN 140,000.

Democrats Show Big Increase Throughout State.

Republicans Make Good Gains and Recover Six Cities.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—Additional and revised returns made early today of the state election in Maine yesterday altered but slightly the result announced last night, the plurality of Bert M. Fernald, the Republican candidate for governor, over Obadiah Gardner, the Democratic ticket leader, remaining at 7,525, with 25 small towns and 26 plantations still to report. The missing districts were either in the northern part of the state or on the little islands off the coast, so that the complete poll of the vote was not expected for several days. When it is compiled it is believed that Fernald's plurality will be found to be about 7,700.

The total revised vote for governor for the 468 cities, towns and plantations was Fernald, Republican, 72,405; Gardner, Democrat, 65,076. The missing districts in 1904 gave Cobb, Republican, 1,117; Davis, Democrat, 451. It was believed today that the total vote in the state for governor for al candidates would exceed 140,000, the largest vote since 1888.

The feature of the election was the increase in the Democratic vote throughout the state, not only over 1904, but over 1906, when it was a particularly heavy one. Every one of the four Congressional districts showed gains, the increase over 1904 being 15,000 votes and 4,000 over 1906. These gains were made almost entirely in the rural districts, showing clearly the popularity of Mr. Gardner among the Grangers of the state, at the head of which organization he served for many years. The Republican vote was also greater than in 1906 by 3,000 votes, but it fell 4,000 below the vote for the Republican candidate in 1904. The Republicans also made good gains in the rural districts and in addition regained six cities in the state, which left the municipalities evenly divided between the two parties.

Returns for Congress show that Gardner ran ahead of his party candidates in the four districts, while Fernald fell behind. In the First district Congressman Amos L. Allen was re-elected by 2,700 plurality, an increase of 1,000 over two years ago. In the Third district Congressman Burleigh was returned also by a slightly increased plurality over that of two years ago. The two new Republican Congressmen, Swazey and Guernsey, were well endorsed, the former having 1,200 plurality and the latter slightly more.

The leaders of the Maine referendum league claimed the adoption today of the two amendments to the constitution which permit the initiative and referendum. Returns for these amendments, however, were very meagre and not at all decisive. The incoming legislature will be about the same as the previous one, strongly Republican in both branches.

The vote for governor in the four Congressional districts, with 51 towns and plantations missing, compared with that of 1904, was as follows:

District,	Fernald	Gardner	Cobb	Davis.
First	18,904	15,465	18,416	13,323
Second	17,779	17,110	18,651	13,530
Third	17,597	16,080	18,197	11,885
Fourth	18,125	16,421	20,561	10,035
Totals	72,405	65,076	75,825	49,673.

TAFT SPEAKS TO DELEGATION.

Not Surprised at Maine Election, But Thinks Vermont's Significant.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15.—Two speeches to visiting delegations and conferences with Senator Crane of Massachusetts and representative Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland, is the program of work for William H. Taft today, on the fifty-first anniversary of his birth. His first address will be delivered in the assembly room of the Sinton Hotel, to a delegation of Greenfield, Ind., residents. This speech will be political in character. To the Ministers of the African Methodist church tonight he will make a general address, non political. A. I. Vorys, Mr. Taft's chief of staff reached here last night from his New York conference.

No comment on the Maine election will be made here until the full returns have been received.

The result of the Maine election Mr. Taft said today, after receiving the latest reports was in no way a surprise, nor was it significant as bearing on the national campaign. "The whole question or issue," he added, "was the resubmission of the prohibition question. Two weeks ago I was informed that for this reason the Republican majority would be reduced to just about the extent it had been."

After the Vermont election Mr. Taft had this to say: "The vote in Vermont is much more significant, as one cast under normal conditions than will be the vote in Maine next week, because it is understood that the peculiar situation there this year prevents a reduced Republican majority there having a national bearing."

"I simply want to repeat today what I said then, "was Mr. Taft's conclusion.

ANTI-HUGHES MEN MAKE LAST STAND.

mendous. Mr. Root told the conference that he could not for a moment consider such a proposition.

Secretary Root having been thus definitely removed from the situation, left the conference that went to bed leaving the leaders face to face with a problem the solution of which they admitted was the next thing to impossible.

When the conference adjourned the difficulty of finding some one to take the nomination in Governor Hughes's stead had apparently not been diminished, and even those most desirous of securing the consent of "some real, good man" to take the nomination professed little confidence in their success.

Discussion of the rest of the ticket had not been reached by the conference, nor was there any discussion of the platform. Both of these matters were regarded as decidedly subsidiary to the main question of whether the organization must after all accept Hughes. It was the expressed opinion of almost everybody at the conference, with the possible exception of Secretary Root, who was not quoted on that subject, that Governor Hughes would not be re-elected in November. Beyond a doubt that is the honest belief of many of the Republican politicians in the state. Apart from the personal antipathy of many of the leaders toward Governor Hughes, this was one of the arguments against the governor's re-nomination upon which practically all those present at this conference were agreed.

With the ironing out of most of the wrinkles which had threatened to turn the second day's session into one of sensational struggle, the convention resumed its session in the hall soon after 2 p. m. today, with something resembling real enthusiasm. The hall was packed to its capacity. The arrival of Secretary of State Root, who presides over the convention as both temporary and permanent chairman, was the signal for an uproar of cheers.

The committee on credentials reported that the only contest was from the first Manhattan assembly district. The committee reported that the motion to dismiss the contest and also the motion to seat the delegates were lost by a tie vote. The report was adopted. Job Hedges read the platform. Slight cheering followed the first mention of Mr. Taft's name and that of President Roosevelt.

The platform endorsed the national administration, as well as that of Governor Hughes. At the words "we endorse the administration of Governor Hughes the convention broke into cheers and applause. Most of the delegates rose, but Albany and Kings County delegates remained seated.

The cheering lasted 70 seconds. The endorsement of Governor Hughes was as follows:

"We endorse the administration of Governor Hughes, who has shown himself a courageous executive, resolved to accomplish what he believed to be for the public good. He has approved measures passed by a Republican legislature, upholding the integrity of the Constitution, maintaining the high character of the public service, providing for the proper regulation of corporations and for the protection of the people's interests."

The platform as read was adopted.

A spectator in the gallery frequently interrupted Mr. Hughes by shouting through a megaphone, "Hurrah for Hughes."

When at last order was gained, it took but a few minutes to complete the permanent organization, Mr. Root being enthusiastically welcomed as permanent chairman. He announced that his speech as permanent chairman would be based on "the regulation gold standard of silence."

On roll-call of counties for nominations for governor, Albany yielded to Livingston and Frank K. Cook, placed in nomination the name of James W. Wadsworth, Jr. Mr. Cooke's statement that "I am going to nominate for governor a Republican," was greeted with enthusiastic applause and cheering.

When Mr. Cook interjected into his speech the declaration that "To win you will have to nominate a man who is not longer than his party," he was loudly cheered. The first mention of Wadsworth's name was followed by loud but brief cheering.

WOODRUFF NAMES TICKET.

Will Vote for Hughes: Says He Will Be Nominated on First Ballot.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—State Chairman Woodruff said to the Associated Press at 12:20 p. m.: "Governor Hughes will be nominated on the first ballot. Senator White will be the nominee for lieutenant governor, Mayor Gaus for comptroller. We are working now upon the rest of the ticket.

"The name of William Berri, proprietor of the Brooklyn Standard Union, who received enthusiastic support and a large majority of the votes in the caucus of the Kings County delegation, will not be presented to the convention. I do not know whether or not the delegation will vote as a unit for Governor Hughes. If the names of Senator White and Speaker Wadsworth are presented, some of the Kings County men may vote for one or the other. I shall vote for Governor Hughes."

Soon after the announcement of Chairman Woodruff, Speaker Wadsworth said: "My name will be presented to the convention. I shall accept the result cheerfully and loyally support the ticket."

At 12:45 p. m. Chairman Woodruff announced the balance of the ticket agreed upon as follows: Secretary of state, Samuel S. Koenig, New York; attorney general, Edward R. O'Malley, Erie; state engineer and surveyor, Frank M. Williams, Madison; state treasurer, Thomas B. Dunn, Monroe; associate judge of the court of appeals, Albert Haight, Erie (renominated).

PAIL OF OIL OVERTURNS.

French Fishing Schooner Burns to the Water's Edge.

SYDNEY, British Columbia, Sept. 15.—Mail advices received here today from St. Pierre, Miq., tell of the loss by fire at sea of French fishing schooner Lamille, on Quero Bank last Thursday night. While the schooner was at anchor a pail of oil was accidentally overturned on the stove, and within a few moments the entire forecastle was in flames. The crew had only time to gather a few garments together and take to the dories. They were picked up by schooner Adventurer and landed at St. Pierre. The Lamille was burned to the water's edge.

The Lamille was on her second fishing trip and had on board at the time of the fire about 100 quintals of fish. She was owned by Emile Folgue of St. Pierre, and was partially insured.

has said also that government ownership will follow if the railroads prevent regulation. I have said the same thing. I do not desire government ownership. I hope the railroads will permit regulation. Our position only differs in that he has more faith than I have in the willingness of the railroads to be regulated.

"He spends some time on the money question. The money question has been taken out of politics because the unexpected discovery of gold has given the increase which was demanded by the Republican party, as well as by the Democratic party.

"Mr. Taft cannot escape from the issues. Will he define his position on the tariff question, on the labor question, on the trust question and on the other issues that are presented in this campaign? He will not be permitted to run away from them. If he prefers to delve into the past, rather than meet the issues of the present, will he explain the Benguet railroad in the Philippines, and the perpetual franchise that he wanted to fasten upon the Filipinos with a perpetual guarantee of income to the corporations securing the franchises?"

NEW YORK, Sept. 15. Wall Street—The stock market opened weak, with Amalgamated Copper at 77⅜, American Smelting 92, American Locomotive 46¼, Anaconda 46⅜, Atchison 89⅝, Baltimore & Ohio 95⅝, Brooklyn Transit 52¾, Canadian Pacific 173½, Chesapeake & Ohio 42⅞, Erie 29½, Great Northern preferred 137¾, Louisville 109¾, Missouri Pacific 56⅝, Missouri Kansas & Texas 32, Northern Pacific 142½, Pennsylvania 124⅝, Reading 135⅝, Rock Island 18⅞, St. Paul 141, Southern Pacific 108⅞, Southern Railway 21¾, Union Pacific 165⅝, United States Steel 46⅝, United States Steel preferred 110½.

10—All of the active trading stocks sold one half to one point lower than last night's close on the opening sales, the decline reaching the latter figure in the case of American Smelting and Southern Railway. Lackawanna sold at an advance of 3, and Iowa Central 1. The dealings were quite active.

11—Supporting orders and covering by the shorts caused a rapid rally, which wiped out the opening losses. Reading was bought on a heavy scale and advanced 2 points from its low figures. Profit-taking clipped a good fraction off the rally afterwards, and speculation became quiet.

Noon—Money on call, steady at 1¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4 to 1½ per cent. Weakness in the Hill group depressed the list in sympathy for a time, but the resistancy of Reading and strength in Erie were counteracting influences. Bonds were irregular.

THE PLAYGROUND MOVEMENT.

Physical Development for City Children and a Place Where Self-Government May be Learned.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

The second annual congress of the Playground Association of America came to an end last Saturday in New York, with the election of President Roosevelt as honorary president, Jacob Riis as honorary vice president and such well known names as Luther H Gulick, Jane Addams and Joseph Lee of Boston, among others, to represent the executive body in different parts of the country.

The playground movement will go down in history as one of the great vital questions of national significance in which President Roosevelt, by taking part in the solving, has given a national impetus to the development of new methods for treating old conditions. The question of the child as a factor in the growth of a nation is a comparatively new one. Compulsory education goes far, but there is more besides the effort to insert a standard amount of education in a stated amount of time into a mind that is frequently controlling a physical organization neither standard nor stated. The juvenile courts established in large cities have infused a humanitarian spirit into the consideration of juvenile delinquency, but it has remained for this big playground idea to seize this very question by the right end, not to remedy evil once set in motion, but to prevent, in a perfectly natural way, tendency toward evil; in other words, an acre of playground is worth a year's session of juvenile course.

President Roosevelt says: "Play is at present almost the only method of physical development for city children, and we must provide facilities for it if we would have the children strong and law-abiding. * * * * City streets are unsatisfactory playgrounds for children because of the danger, because most good games are against the law * * * * and because in crowded sections of the city they are apt to be schools of crime."

So rapidly does a common-sense idea take with the American people that playgrounds already are established in almost every city of the Union from Porto Rico to Seattle, in most instances the city itself appropriating the sum necessary to the maintenance of the playground, recognizing it as of the educational value of schools. President Luther H. Gulick, M. D., in his speech before the congress said: "A fundamental condition for the permanent development of a free people is that they shall in childhood learn to govern themselves. Self-government is to be learned as an experience, rather than taught as a theory. Hence in a permanent democracy adequate playgrounds for all the children are a necessity."

The congress ended with a field day in Van Cortlandt Park, when 500 children from the playgrounds in and around New York took part in the various national dances. The association has been invited by Seattle and Los Angeles to meet in those cities next year.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Miss Ethel Cryder, Daughter of Mrs. Duncan Cryder, to Marry Mr. Cecil Higgins of London.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cryder of New York have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel Cryder, to Mr. Cecil Higgins of London, England. This engagement is of much interest to society in this country and abroad. Miss Cryder is the only one unmarried of the triplet daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cryder. Her sisters are Mrs. William Woodward and Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, the latter living in Boston. When the three sisters were introduced to society in New York half a dozen years ago they created quite a sensation, owing to their beauty and distinguished carriage, and all were very popular.

Mr. Higgins is the son of Mr. Henry Vincent Higgins of London, who is largely interested in the direction of the Covent Garden Opera. His mother, Lady Hilda Higgins, who died many years ago, before her marriage was Lady Hilda Finch-Hatton, a daughter of the eleventh Earl of Winchelsea, and she was related to many of the foremost English families.

Mr. Higgins's father married about 12 years ago the widow of William Lawrence Breese, of New York, and whose son, Mr. W. Lawrence Breese, married Miss Julia Fish last spring. Mr. Cecil Higgins was one of the ushers. Young Mr. Higgins has been a frequent visitor to New York city, as has also his father.

Miss Cryder has been spending the summer with her parents in Southampton, where they now are. No date has been set for the wedding.

COLLECTOR COZZENS'S BUSY DAY

Tax Collector Cozzens is still a busy man. Yesterday he had a strenuous time, and when business closed last night less than $20,000 of the taxes for 1908 remained unpaid, nearly $500,000 having been paid. When he opened early this morning to make ready for today's business some one found that he was in his office and immediately people were around, anxious to pay their taxes. Things were lively until about noon, when there was a slight lull. Though this is the last day for paying taxes without a penalty, there will be many payments during the remainder of the week, as some have just about begun to realize that the time is at hand and that they must pay.

PLAYED UNTIL DARK.

First the Royal Giants Beat the Cuban Stars, Easily.

Then the Newports Won from the Giants in a Close and Fast Game.

The double-header arranged by Manager Anthony to close his base ball season was a "corker," to use a base ball expression. In the first game the Royal Giants had the Indian sign on the Cuban Stars and for eight long innings they failed to score, finally breaking the ice in the last half of the ninth, for two runs. It was the sixth game of the series between these two teams and the sixth successive win for the Royals. Then, after a rest of half an hour, Newport and the Royal Giants met, and the fur flew and the noises ascended to the skies and people rose and shouted and the Royal Giants did not have all the shouting on their side, as in the first game. Darkness suspended the play, with the score a tie, in the middle of the eighth inning, and the rules calling it back to the seventh Newport won, 4-3. There was a call from the spectators to finish the inning, but for more than a full inning the light had been unfit for playing and when the umpire called it for darkness he meant that he could not see, and that was the end of it.

There was a big crowd in attendance. At the start the bleachers were filled, the side fences were well populated and there was a fair gathering in the grand stand. As the game progressed the grand stand filled, so that it was nearly full when the second game began. It was an enthusiastic gathering. There was of course a large number of colored people, who made a lot of noise for the Royal Giants, but in the first game the whites seemed to favor the Cubans. It was not until the last half of the ninth that they had a chance to shout for them and they did it. In the second game, when Newport was playing, there was no question as to who could make the noise—the supporters of Newport did.

The weather was fine, though when the sun went down it became chilly in a short while and every one was glad to have the game called, as the wait had become tiresome, even if the ball playing was fast.

The first game was an exhibition of fast playing on both sides. Earl pitched with great skill and received practically faultless support. Munyos, on the other hand, was batted hard and his supporters were called upon to do some great stunts in fielding to keep him in sight. All but Mendez seemed in good condition and he appeared out of place at second. Then what luck there was went to the Royals, who were fresher and more confident than the Cubans and were really in better condition.

The skyrocket plays began in the first, when after a safe hit by Earl, Johnson drove a liner at Munyos, who caught it. Bootes had no chance and was doubled at second. Johnson in the last half, showed that he was in the game by taking a liner from Govantes.

In the second, things happened. Dunbar hit to right, James sacrificed him along a fast play by Figarola, Bootes hit for two bases, Bradley went out, Mongin hit for a single and Brown for a double, Monroe hit to right, and three runs were in.

The features of the third were a fine stop by Parpetti and a great catch by Bradley.

In the fourth, Bootes was safe on a high throw by Bustamente, Bradley hit for two bags and Mongin for one, Brown hit to the pitcher and was nipped at home—one run. Johnson made a great pick-up from Bustamente.

In the fifth, Bustamente and Magrinat made great catches.

In the sixth, Mendez and Bustamente made fine pick-ups, Munyos hit safe and was left on third.

In the seventh, the Giants were busy again. Mongin hit safe, Brown scratched one to second and a wild throw sent Mongin to third. Monroe hit to second, who fumbled, and one run was in. Santa Cruz made a fine catch off Dunbar and Dunbar made a fine catch off Bustamente in the last half.

In the eighth, James singled and Bootes sacrificed, the pitcher throwing late to second. Bradley hit to Bustamente and a triple play followed to second, to first, home, where James was caught. It was pretty work and the crowd applauded. Mendez went to third in the last half, but was left. Up to this time but three hits had been made off Earl.

In the last half of the ninth the Cubans broke the ice and the crowd yelled. Figarola beat out one to third, Govantes hit the pitcher's foot and was safe, Parpetti sacrificed, Bustamente was given a base, Magrinat hit to pitcher, and Figarola was caught at the plate. Santa Cruz hit to centre and two runs were in, Santa Cruz being caught at second on the return to the plate. The score:

Half an hour later the second game was started. Newport secured Santa Cruz to play right field and the game began with Coffey pitching. He did not have the best of control but at times had his old effectiveness and the Royals were afraid of him. He received great support, one dropped fly by Santa Cruz on a hard chance being the only error, and it was a question if that was an error. Johnson again showed that a man can hit the ball hard and yet not make a hit, for in the two games, in nine times at bat, he hit the ball hard just nine times, and not safely once, and every time the opposing players made a perfect play. Yet his name, "Home Run Johnson," is no misnomer.

The game was marred by an accident to Delaney in the fifth, which will put him out of ball playing for some time, at least. A foul tip from Mongin hit his right thumb and split the bone. He suffered a great deal and Drs. Wheatland and Ramsay came on the field and tied it up. This called for a re-adjustment of players and P. Sullivan went behind the bat, Martin going to first, Santa Cruz to centre and Dillon going in at right. The game then proceeded with apparently no falling off in the Newport's playing, even if the team was weakened.

The Newports jumped on Ridgeley in the last half of the first for three runs. Langley went out, Mulvey singled past short, P. Sullivan hit a hard one to the centre field fence for two bags, Mulvey scoring; Cobbitt hit to centre for a single and P. Sullivan scored. Andy Sullivan hit to centre for a double, and Cobbitt scored. Ridgeley at this time took a seat on the bench and Thomas went into the box. Martin hit into a double play and the side was out.

In the second Bradley hit safe and was thrown out by Delaney, Dunbar flew out, then Coffey gave two bases on balls but Langley took Thomas's liner and the danger was over. For Newport, Delaney hit along the right field line for three bases. He was to come home on Coffey's bunt, the squeeze play, but Coffey did not attempt to bunt and Delaney was caught without a chance.

In the last of the third Newport added another run. Langley was hit, Mulvey fouled, P. Sullivan hit to right for a single, Cobbitt drew a pass, A. Sullivan flew to centre a long fly on which Langley scored, Martin was passed and Cruz flew to second. This catch, a one-handed one by Mongin, saved at least two runs, as the ball was sailing in a line.

In the fourth, the Giants scored three, their all. Bradley struck out, Dunbar struck out but Delaney did not get the ball; Santa Cruz dropped Mongin's fly and fell, Mongin going to third. Brown hit for two bags and Thomas for one and three runs were in. Monroe hit to right; it looked like more runs but Coffey woke up and a grounder to first and one to short stopped further proceedings.

Mongin made a pretty catch off Martin in the fifth, and Santa Cruz, after moving into centre, made a fine catch off Mongin in the same inning.

In the sixth, Monroe singled and was caught off first. It took six to put him out, but he was retired.

In the seventh, Bootes hit to right for two bags, Johnson hit a screecher down to third and no one knew just what had happened until Andy Sullivan touched Bootes as he ran by; then it was known that Andy had taken in the comet.

It had been growing dark for some time and the umpire wished to call the game at the end of the seventh, but the visitors desired to go on. James and Bradley had changed places, as the latter was hurt by a ball he could not see well. The Royals made one run in the first half of the eighth and the score was tied, but the umpire would not try to strain his eyes any longer. He said he could not see the ball and the game ended there. It was really unfit for play more than an inning before the umpire called the game. Under the rules the score went back to the seventh and Newport won, 4—3. The score:

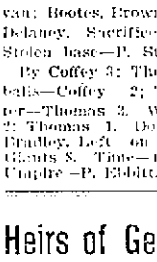
A Good Thing Between Friends.



And it's no secret, either, for every lover of good candies knows that Koschny's confectionery is so good that it can't be better; at least no other maker has succeeded in making confections that are as good. If you have never tasted them don't fail to do so, as you are wasting time in delaying.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET ELECTED.

Prohibitionists and License Men Break Evenly in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 15.—The election of George W. Donaghey, Democratic nominee for governor, and the Democratic ticket by a majority which may exceed that received by Governor Little two years ago by more than 65,000, and an apparently even break between the Prohibitionists and license advocates, are the most important results of the state election yesterday, as indicated by incomplete returns from a majority of the 75 counties in Arkansas.
